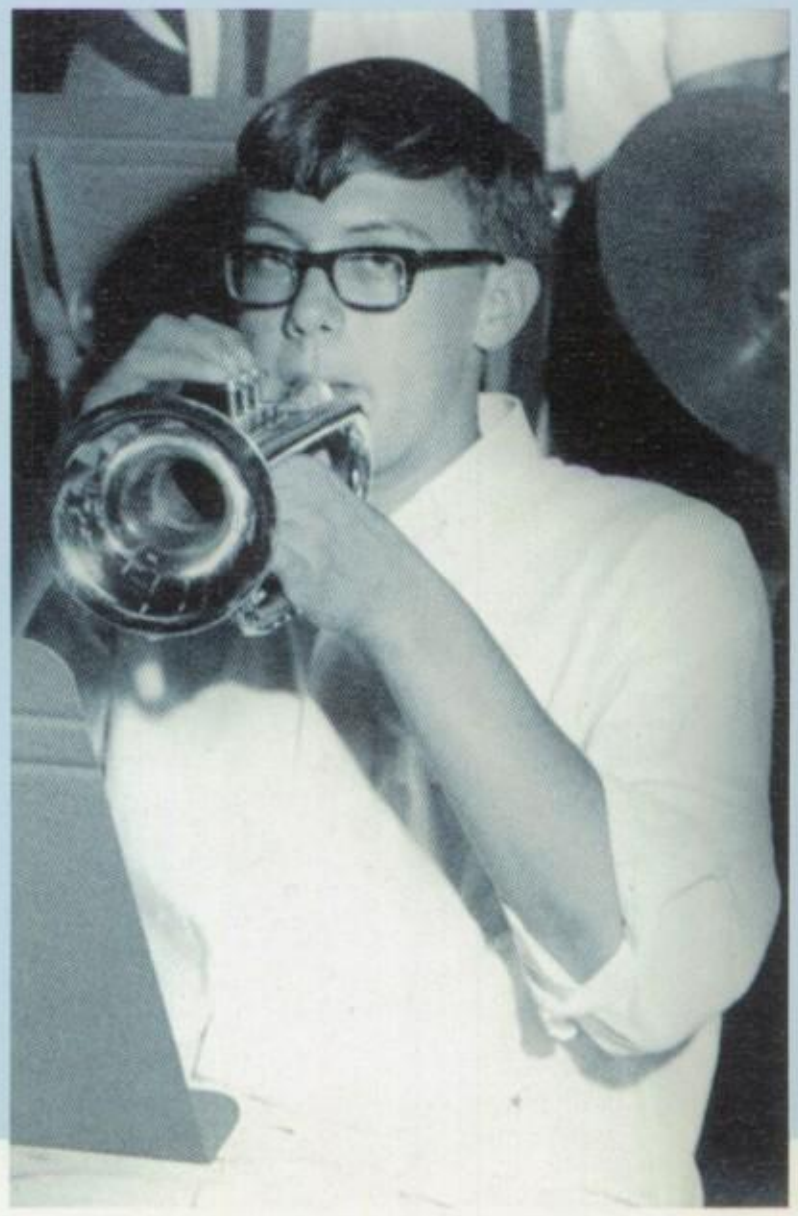
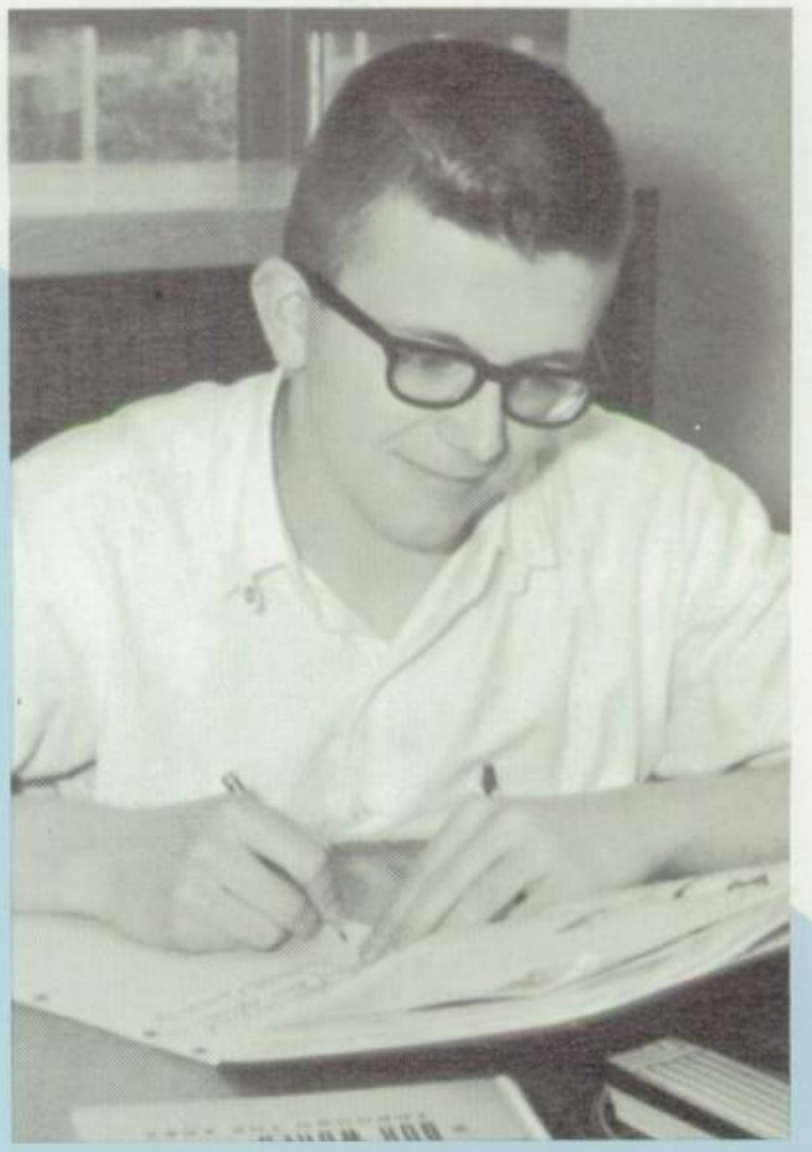
Youth Acquires Education



We enter high school. The first big transition through which we pass is that of coming from a limited view of the world to a broader awareness of events taking place around us. This is a time when life is moulding a new individual. Part of this is accomplished through education. Youth is always susceptible to new concepts. Through education we must develop the reasoning to distinguish between the good and bad of these ideas, to be self-reliant, and to give of ourselves. Study, Homework. Questions. Answers. Success. Failure. These are but a part of the learning process initiated here.



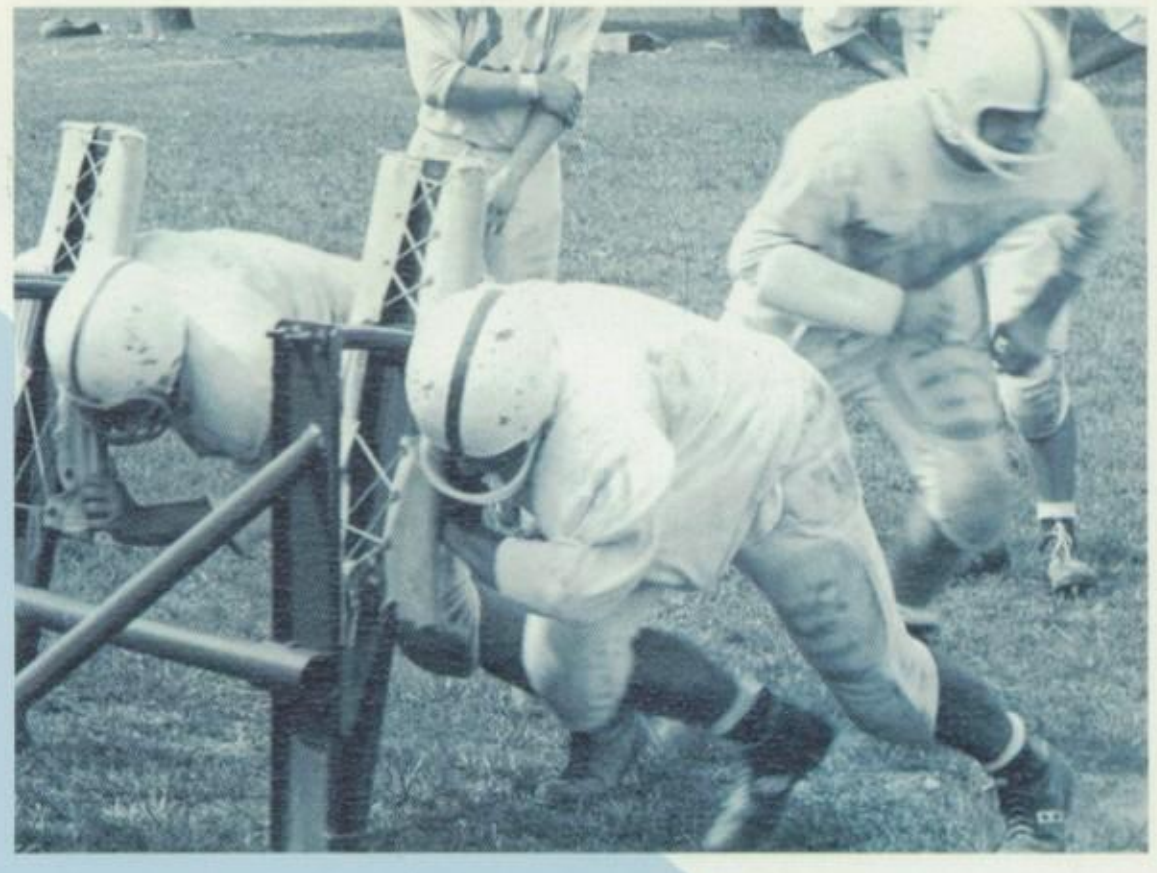
Education

Instills

Confidence

There are many rewards to acquiring an education. Perhaps the most obvious is a greater knowledge of the world in which we live, but the most satisfying is attaining the self-assurance that comes with learning. Education is the key to success, for a world which stretches vast and unknown is a difficult challenge. Through study, however, we learn to understand life, and in this process comes a knowledge of ourselves and our surroundings which will be retained. Finally, this knowledge is instrumental in the realization of the personal goals that we have pursued with confidence.

Confidence Encourages



Accomplishment

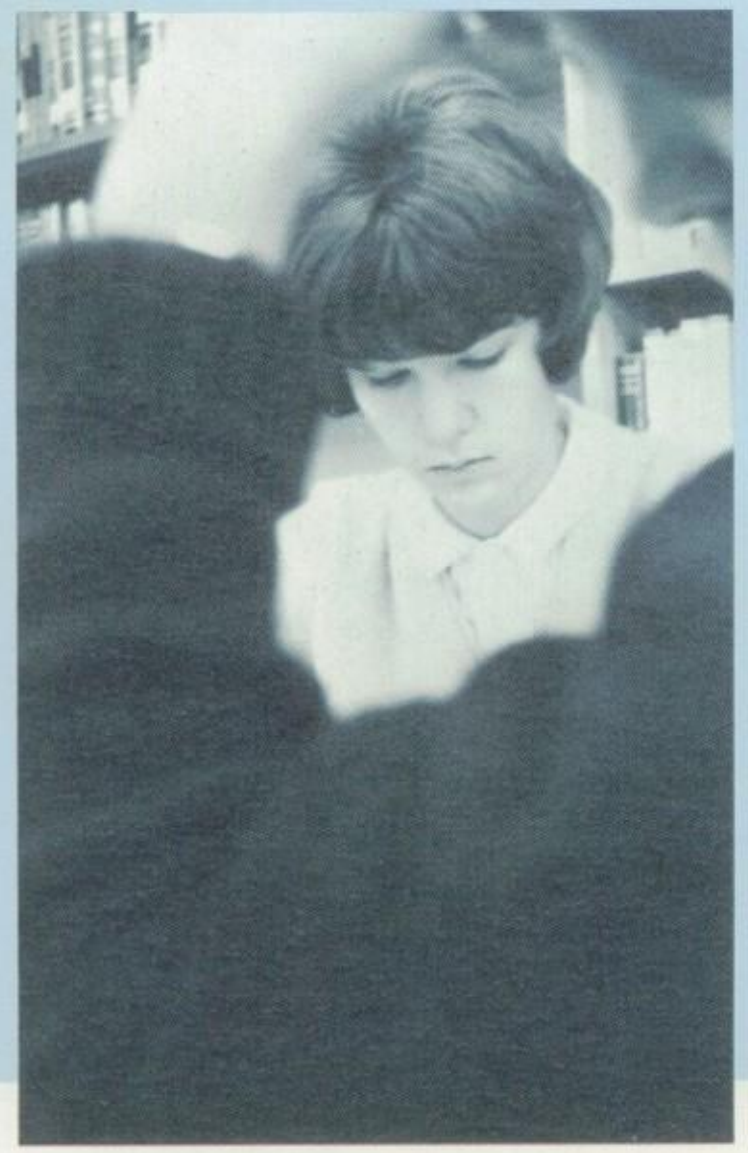
In the new light of self-confidence, we see the very universe as a challenge. We are eager to set new and higher goals and to attain a greater degree of perfection in all we do. Incorporated with this enthusiasm, the confidence of others—teachers, parents, friends—encourages determination to prove our own merit. Determination leads to accomplishment, the reward of confidence, and the many aspects of worthy achievement are enmeshed in the transition from child to young adult.

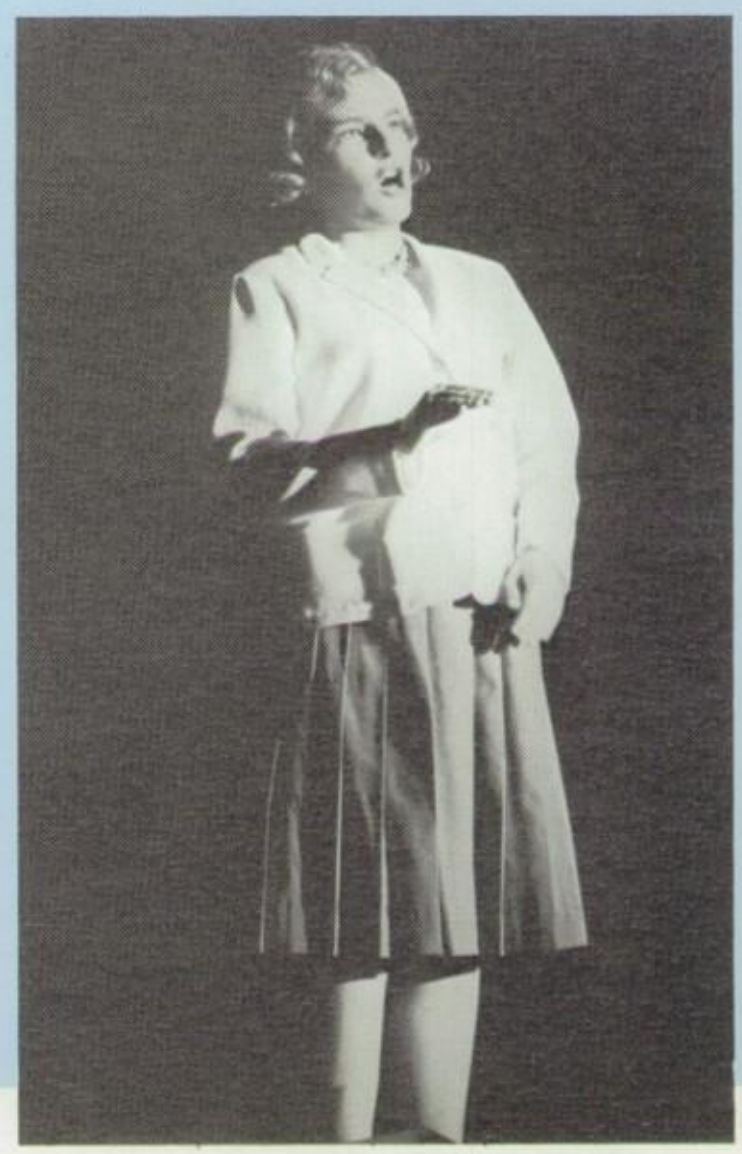
Accomplishment Strengthens

We gain character through accomplishment. Not only scholastic achievement, but also through the trial and error of daily living. Every error is a stepping stone because it makes us more aware of the right and wrong way of doing things and this, indeed, is progress. Worthwhile accomplishment often requires sacrifice, but those who make significant contributions through effort and perseverance are rewarded with the satisfaction of a job well done. This helps to develop a well-rounded character, and character is that intangible distinction which identifies each of us as individuals.

Character

Steve Collins (fourth), Don Olson (first) Bruce Beck (ninth), Ohio General Scholarship Test State winners.





Character Is Manifested in Maturity

As the experiences and friends we have acquired in meeting our curricular requirements have helped us to develop our own personality and character, so this character will form the foundation of the transition into mature adulthood. This transition is a delicate one, for here are sown the seeds of a new generation which will shape the destiny of the next century. Thus, we hope that as graduation approaches, a new maturity is emerging—our own.

To the Student Body

The administrative staff of Bowsher would like to add its congratulations to the many which the 1964-65 yearbook staff will receive. Many months of hard work are required to produce an outstanding high school annual.

We also congratulate the seniors who have successfully completed their high school years. Remember that your school is still available to serve you as a graduate.

We trust that those who are returning will do all that is possible to perpetuate the high standards established by our first graduating classes.

This newly formed club was organized to enjoy and improve barbershop singing. Bowsher Barbershop hopes to encourage the formation of other such groups at Bowsher. They sang for hospitals and other organizations and visited the Toledo Men's Chorus rehearsals. The members enjoyed a picnic at Farnsworth Park to complete a successful year.

Varsity "B" Club

You can always recognize the members of this club by the large "B" that appears on their sweaters. This year the Varsity "B" initiated the perennial project of planting evergreen trees in honor of those athletes who received first team all-city honors. Among the other activities of these boys are selling badges, programs, and refreshments during basketball season. From the profits, they purchased needed equipment for various athletic teams. Their purposes of encouraging good conduct, good sportsmanship, and good citizenship helped fashion a good, all-around program.

Crest

This year has seen many changes adopted in Bowsher's bi-monthly newspaper, the Crest. In addition to its new larger size, this publication offered a six-page color issue at Christmas. Another innovation was the Readers' Forum which gave voice to student opinions on pertinent matters in the school and community. Guided by Miss Patricia Osborn, adviser and Tom Davies, editor-in-chief, the Crest staff has completed another successful year of service to the students and faculty at Bowsher.

1964 Rebelees

DEVIL TALK, the second production of REBELEES, met, if not surpassed, the success of the first year's production. With one year of experience behind them, the students went to work to produce a show worthy of the tradition that had been set the year before. When show time arrived the product of their efforts proved to be all that could have been desired. Bowsher had produced another hit under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Papps, faculty adviser.

Thoughts on Transition

EDITORS' NOTE

And so another year . . . In this book we have attempted, as every yearbook does, to preserve many of the memorable events of this year at Bowsher. Through pictures, words, moods, something which was nothing is transformed into a tangible, retainable memory.

In the 1965 APOGEE, however, we have endeavored to capture something more than just a dance or a basketball game. We wished to include something of the student himself. Therefore, we have incorporated into our "memory" the thoughts and feelings of some of our own seniors as presented in this original creative writing. As a very general theme, they have used Transition, the theme of this book, and perhaps the essence of life itself.

Lonely Garden, still, so quiet
Sleep thee, die thee now or then,
Evil art thee
Death surmounts
Art thee
Waitful.

Eternity recorded thee
Black, white
Gray, else.
For which Expelled from thy Mercy!
Yet.

A WORLD WITHOUT . . .

I am a nothing;
for I am something.
A person is so empty;
yet a life so full.
What is it I have missed,
that I wish to know.
It cannot be Beauty
for I have seen nature.
It cannot be Love
for mine has been broken.
It cannot be Hate
for I have a friend.
It cannot be such as I've told for I have lived a life without . . .

—Tom Forquer

ETERNITY

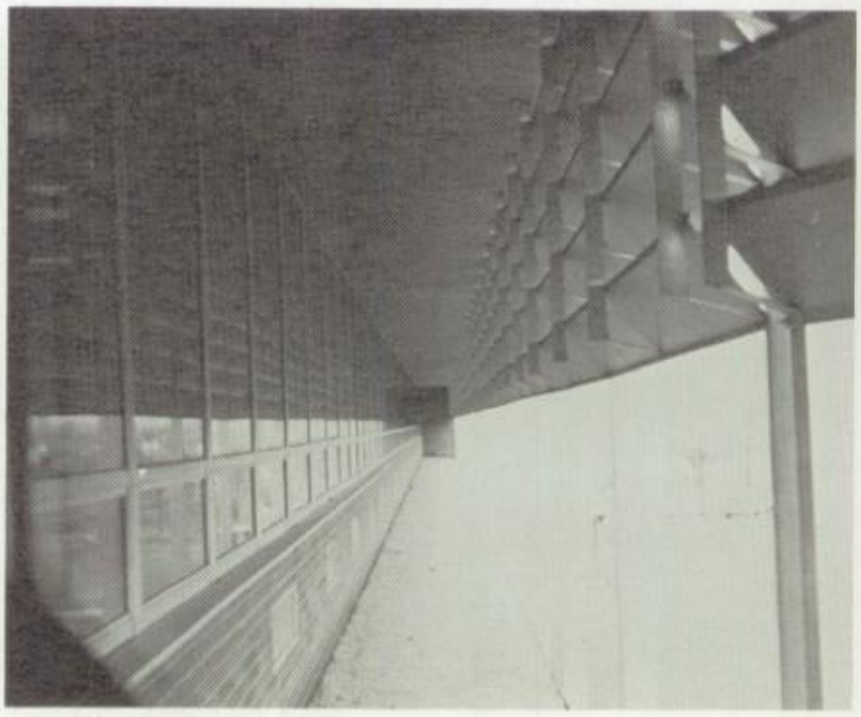
O, why fear everlasting peace
In which there is no room for hate,
Where war's a never thought of thing,
Where no one worries about fate.

O, why fear silence, dark and sweet,
Where men are free to think at length,
Where no one knows of cold or heat,
Where dependence upon God gives strength.

O, why fear freedom from desire and need—
Those things which are the cause of sin.
Forgiven is the bygone deed,
For guests at the eternal inn.

Death is the greatest part of life.
All men of ages present and past,
Meet the end of toil and strife,
In beauty and love and happiness.

—Lynn Jackson



LAMENT

When we're young we feel quite strong
With will to right all that is wrong.

In early years we drop great tears
For suffering; and for virtue, cheers.

But as we grow we take in tow
The forces that make justice slow.

And when we're old our legs will fold;
We have not shown, we have not told.

—J.W.W.

TRANSITIONS

No matter who we are or how old we are, everyone of us has had to adjust to some change in his life. With each transition we mature a little more. Even though the adjustment be a small and insignificant one, it prepares us for the day when we will be faced with a transition to which we either adjust or are left behind in the fast pace of life.

We seniors will find out in a matter of months if we have matured enough to successfully adjust to the great change from the sheltered lives we've been living in high school to the independent life of college or a steady job. If we have successfully adapted ourselves to high school, we should have no trouble adapting ourselves to the challenging years ahead.
